Providence Was Kind Indeed

All Carmel is in a prayerful state of mind- and should be so. Considering the nature of last Saturday's automobile accident at Hairpin Bend, on the highway between Carmel and Monterey, it is nothing less than a miricle that a number of our residents were not killed outright. It might have been that instead of a joyful Christmas, we should have had a very sad one.

In the many years that Fred M. Wermuth has transported passengers over the Carmel hill, this is the only serious accident he has had.

In backing the heavy machine, in order to pick up a package of papers near the embankment, no one seemed to realize that the ground had been made very soft by the rain of the night before, and while the weight of the car and its twelve passengers was on solid level ground, the rear end gradually sunk, slipped over the embankment, and turned completely over.

All those who were injured—none seriously—are recovering.

It is said that the Railroad Commission will institute an inquiry concerning the accident.

We extend to all customers and friends

A Very Merry CHRISTMAS

Don't forget. City taxes should be paid on or before Monday, December 30, to avoid paying a penalty for delinquency.

Artist George J. Seideneck has taken up his residence at Carmel Highlands, occupying the Ritschel house. He will be in town often, however.

Many inquiries are being made, both privately and at the real estate offices, concerning Carmel property. The new year will witness much exchange of property and building will be active. Labor and material will be plentiful.

After a stay here for several months, the Rendtorffs are about to return to their Palo Alto home. Dr. Rendtorff resumes his academic duties at Stanford with the new year

Leon W. Narvaez, who has been at Camp Kearney, San Diego, is home for the holidays, perhaps permantly.

Sailor laddie Gordon Davis has been about town during the past week renewing old acquaintances. "Me for Carmel, when I get out of the service," he says.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Darling are down from San Jose to occupy their Carmel house for several weeks. They usually spend the year end holidays here.

Edward J. Sullivan, who has been sojourning here, left last week for Los Angeles He will return here before New Year, and remain a few days prior to his departure for Sacramento to be present at the opening of the Legislature on January 6.

Mrs. Dorothy R. Godfrey, niece of Mrs. John Galen Howard, who made many friends here during her sojourn last summer, is again visiting Carmel Her four months' old baby is a perfect jewel.

Miss Helen Cheney Brown, an artist well known in Carmel, and Miss Marble of Vermont, are here for the winter. Welcome to our little city.

Six young ladies, with two chaperons, from the Castelleja School in Palo Alto, are registered at La Playa for the holidays.

Let your return gift at New Year be a book. Heron's Book Shop. adv

In accordance with the request of the State Council of Defense, a Community meeting of the residents of Carmel is called at the City Hall tomorrow (Friday) evening, for the purpose of organization. W. L. Overstreet, Temporary Chairman

Mrs. H. K. Busey, whose home is now on the Sweetnam ranch in Carmel Valley, has gone to Bakersfield with her daughter, Madeline. They will return in a fortnight.

It is probable that bills will be introduced in both houses of the California Legislature having for their purpose an inquiry into the status of land titles in various parts of the State. Some holdings in Monterey county will be closely examined.

Mrs. M. H. Mussey and Miss Taylor of New York are settlement workers there, while Miss Helena Dudley is a worker in the Italian district in Boston. They are La Playa guests.

Prof. George Hempl of Stanford University is here with his wife for a few weeks' stay. They come often to Carmel

Owing to the necessity of giving his business here his personal attention Ernest Schweninger will soon be given his discharge from the Navy.

Grenville C. Emery, founder and for many years head master of the Harvard School at Los Angeles, was a Carmel visitor Sunday, calling upon his old pupil, Herbert Heron, at the Book Shop.

The long vacation of our public school and the consequent necessity for getting in as much work as possible during the next term, behooves every parent to see that their children are in attendance on opening day, Monday, January 6. And there must be no absence, except for very good cause.

His Imperial Highess, Prince Higashi Fushimi, and suite, arrived at Del Monte recently. In the trip about the Peninsula the party stopped at Highlands Inn for tea.

Naval Bandmaster Frederick Preston Search of the Mare Island Training Station is home on a ten days' furlough. "It's great to be home for Christmas."

Instead of the evensong service at All Saints next Sunday, there will be morning prayer and sermon at 11 o'clock.

Miss Margaret Amiss, who is a guest at La Playa, is from Miss Ranson's School in Piedmont.

Call for your calendar and almanac at the Carmel Drug Store. adv

Rev. D. Charles Gardner and Rev. C. S. S. Dutton of San Francisco were luncheon guests at La Playa one day last week.

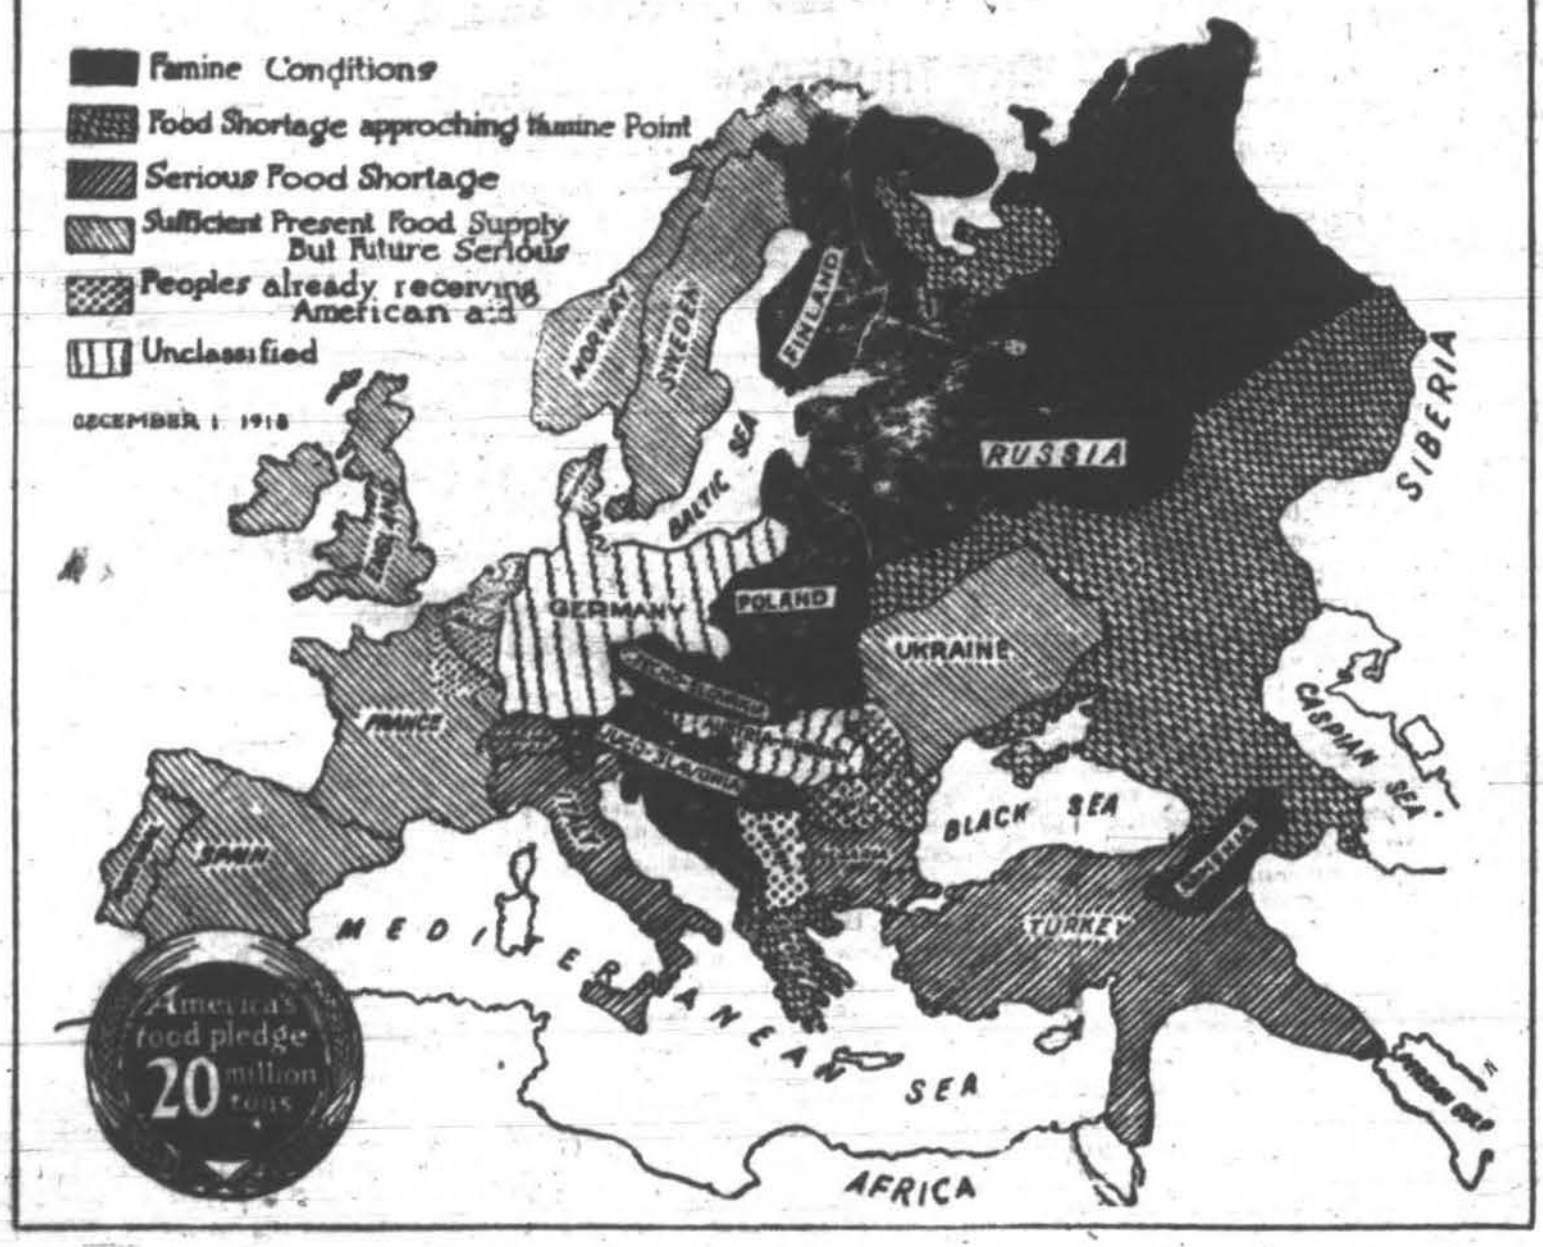
HUNGER DRAWS THE MAP



A food map of Europe today shows not a single country in which the future does not hold threat of serious difficulties and only a small part which is not rapidly approaching the famine point. With the exception of the Ukraine only those countries which have maintained marine commerce have sufficient food supplies to meet actual needs until next harvest, and even in the Ukraine, with stores accumulated on the farms, there is famine in the large centers of population.

Belgium and northern France, as well as Serbia, appear on the hunger map distinct from the rest of Europe because they stand in a different relation from the other nations to the people of the United States. America has for four years maintained the small war rations of Belgium and northern France and is already making special efforts to care for their increased after-the-war needs, which, with those of Serbia, must be included in this plan, are urgent in the extreme and must have immediate relief.

The gratitude of the Belgian nation for the help America has extended to her during the war constitutes the strongest appeal for us to continue our work there. The moment the German armies withdrew from her soil and she was established once more in her own seat of government the little nation's first thought was to express her gratitude to the Commission for Relief in Belgium for preserving the lives of millions of her citizens.

Germany, on the other hand, need not figure in such a map for Americans because there is no present indication that we shall be called on at all to take thought for the food needs of Germany. Germany probably can care for her own food problem if she is given access to shipping and is enabled to distribute food to the cities with dense populations, which are the trouble centers.

England, France, the Netherlands and Portugal, all of which have been maintained from American supplies, have sufficient food to meet immediate needs, but their future presents serious difficulties. The same is true of Spain and the northern neutral countries -Norway, Sweden and Denmark —whose ports have been open and who have been able to draw to some degree upon foreign supplies.

Most of Russia is already in the throes of famine, and 40,000,000 people there are beyond the possibility of help. Before another spring thousands of them inevitably must die. This applies as well to Poland and practically throughout the Baltic regions, with conditions most serious in Finland.

Bohemia, Serbia, Roumania and Montenegro have already reached the famine point and are suffering a heavy toll of death. The Armenian population is failing each week as hunger takes its toll, and in Greece, Albania and Roumania so serious are the food shortages that famine is near. Although starvation is not yet imminent, Italy, Switzerland, Bulgaria and Turkey are in the throes of serious stringencies.

In order to fulfill America's pledge in world relief we will have to export every ton of food which can be handled through our ports. This means at the very least a minimum of 20,000,000 tons compared with 6,000,000 tons prewar exports and 11,820,000 tons exported last year, when we were bound by the ties of war to the European allies.

If we fail to lighten the black spots on the hunger map or if we allow any portions to become darker the very peace for which we fought and bled will be threatened. Revolt and anarchy inevitably follow famine. Should this happen we will see in other parts of Europe a repetition of the Russian debacle and our fight for world peace will have been in vain.

I believe that the ills of this world are remediable while we are in the world by no other means than the Spirit of Truth and Brotherliness working their lawful occasions among men. I believe in Here and Now.—Mary Austin, in "Christ in Italy."

OUT AMONG THE BIG THINGS

By Arthur Chapman

OUT among the big things—
The mountains and the plains—
An hour ain't important,
Nor are the hours gains;
The feller in the city
Is hurried night and day,
But out among the big things
He learns the calmer way.

Out among the big things—
The skies that never end—
To lose a day ain't nothin',
The days are here to spend;
So why not give 'em freely,
Enjoyin' as we go?
I somehow can't help thinkin'
The good Lord means life so.

The Beautiful Bethlehem Bells

Over the roar of the cities, over the hills and the dells,
With a message of peace to the nations, ring the beautiful Bethlehem bells,
Bringing joy to the souls that are sighing in the hovels where poverty dwells—
There is life—there is life for the dying, in the beautiful Bethlehem bells.

Far off in a land that is lovely, for the tender sweet story it tells,
In the light of a glorious morning rang the beautiful Bethlehem bells;
And still in the hearts of creation an anthem exultingly swells
At that memory sweet of the ringing of the beautiful Bethlehem bells.

They ran o'er the hills and the valleys, they summoned the glad world that day,
From regions of night to the radiant light of the cot where the Beautiful lay.
And forever and ever and ever a wonderful melody dwells
In the tender sweet ringing and singing of the beautiful Bethlehem bells.

For they sing of a love that is deathless—a love that still triumphs in loss;
They sing of the love that is leading the world to the Calvary cross;
Ring sweet o'er the sound of the cities—ring sweet o'er the hills and the dells
And touch us with tenderest pities, oh, beautiful Bethlehem bells!

Letter From "Red Division" Soldier

If is not so long ago that Cameron Waite was a schoolboy here, and after school hours a fine little worker in the Pine Cone office. From the battle-field in France he writes to Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Beck as follows:

My dear Aunt and Uncle:

Just a few lines to let you know that I received your ever welcome letter.

Well, Aunty, we don't have to duck the Germans' six-inchers any more, and I suppose you have read that the Twenty eighth Division was made a Red Division, which honor was awarded for doing the hardest fighting, and, as I understand, we are one of the first divisions to sail for dear old America. We expect to be home by Christmas, or shortly after.

This is sure a happy country now. It is the first time in nearly five years that the people can leave their windows open and burn lights inside, and not be bothered with air raids.

We are still in the last battle line, but the Germans have started to evacuate, and all one could see today was prisoners coming through who were released by the Germans. Hostilities ceased at 11 o'clock, and from early morning until late at night there was one of the worst barrages I ever saw. It seemed that our fellows were trying to shoot all the ammunition in the world before the cessation of hostilities, and the Fritzies were doing the same

Later in the afternoon, the men who had been firing at each other with intent to kill were out in No Man's Land shaking hands and exchanging souvenirs It was one of the funniest things I ever saw. A German to whom I was talking said he wouldn't fight any more—he'd give himself up first.

They were the happiest men in the world, even if they did get very much the worst of it. I was in the enemy lines eight hours after the end of the fighting, talking with the Bosches; that is, to those who spoke a little English, for I am not much on this Fatherland lingo; but we got along nicely. There was not the least bit of envy or hatred shown by a single one of those Germans, who only a few hours previous were being shot at by us.

We landed in France on June 1, went into the trenches to relieve infantry on June 16, and have been in the scrap till the end So of course you see I did not have much pleasure in France. But I enlisted to fight, and I have done my bit as well as I could, and now that it is over, I am glad I was in it. Of course, I went through a lot of hardships and suffered a little from gas, but I can proudly say I belonged to the Twenty-eighth, one of the "Fighting Reds," as they are termed.

I will be glad to be back in the dear old U. S. A., also to be able to see California again. It will not be long until I see you both, and can have a good long talk.

Lovingly, Cameron
